

We are all in this together.

TECHLAB knows our customers are struggling with challenges from COVID-19.

We want to share the steps we have taken to ensure the supply of our family of QUIK CHEK™ rapid diagnostics and CHEK™ ELISA diagnostic kits:

- All of our diagnostic kits are manufactured and stored at our facilities in the United States.
- We produce all critical reagents in-house with stringent monitoring and back-up.
- In response to the current challenges, we have modified manufacturing shifts to minimize employee numbers in workspaces and are respecting social distancing.
- We have also dramatically increased supply-on-hand.

With these measures in place, we are committed to supplying the high-quality diagnostic kits on which you rely.

TECHLAB was founded 30 years ago to produce enteric diagnostics and its history is intimately intertwined with C. difficile, which over a decade ago, caused another devastating international health crisis. As a community, we got through that period. We will get through this one too.

Be safe. Be well.

We are all in this together.
